

GREEN WORLD

Long hot summer

The Green World Festival closes the summer of 2017 with a mega-party that will offer 15 hours of music and up to six DJs to complete what organisers have described as the best line-up of its history.

Jamie Jones, Richy Ahmed, Andrea Oliva, Matthias Tanzman, Beto Uña and Ben Simington will all perform on September 16, the day chosen for the grand farewell to summer, at the Amarilla Golf in San Miguel de Abona and Papagayo Beach Club in Playa de Las Américas.

The event will start at 3pm at Amarilla Golf until midnight. From there, anyone who wants to continue the party can do so until 6am at the Papagayo Beach Club. If you buy a twin ticket for both venues (€35), transport is included.

At Amarilla Golf you will experience a special moment of the Green World edition: a back to back between Andrea Oliva and Matthias Tanzman. In addition, on the 11th hole you can enjoy the sessions of Jamie Jones and Richy Ahmed. Meanwhile, at Papagayo Beach Club, in addition to Andrea Oliva and Matthias Tanzman (who are doubling up), Beto Uña and Ben Simington will also be present.

Jamie Jones is one of the best assets of the British club scene. His career began to move under the Freak n Chic label, owned by Frenchmen Dan Ghenacia and David Duriez, where he brought out the EP Amazon in early 2006. Jamie is on the books at Damian Lazarus, who has called him several times to produce for his label Cross-town Rebels, as well as other commissions.

Richy Ahmed is at the forefront of the new batch of artists who are redefining house music by mixing it with disco, techno, funk, hip hop and whatever comes to mind. Generation and style-partner of names such as Robert James, Subb-an, Russ Yallop and Maya Jane Coles, Ahmed has quickly become a name within the scene. Newcastle-born, although living in London, he forms part of the group Hot Creations with Jamie Jones and Lee Foss (creators and owners of the group).

Matthias Tanzman has been a DJ since 1996 and since then has toured extensively. With his companions Alexander Voigt and Mario Weise he forms the trio Deep Drawn. From a very early age, Andrea Oliva had only had one thing in his head - spinning vinyl. Soon he began to train daily in a record store, and by 14 years old he was performing in front of audiences. Two years later he was already the resident of a club where he shared the cabin with artists such as Little Louis Vega, Mousse T, Ian Pooley, David Morales, Carl Craig and Derrick May, among others. ■
